

Alameda County Marine Flare Collection Event

One-day collection event for recreational boaters
Who berth a boat or live in Alameda County

- This event is for collection and disposal of signal devices (flares) from recreational boaters. No military type devices or flares from commercial craft, businesses or organizations
- When making appointment give name, address, marina, type(s) and quantity of flares for disposal, describe any unusual items
- Bring proof of residence or marina membership when delivering
- For damaged, decayed, very old or large flares contact Alameda County at by phone or e-mail below for options.
- Transport flares safely: in original packaging or protect from movement. Assure any ignition device is covered or taped in place.

Marine signal devices are explosives and therefore difficult to dispose of.

Alameda County Department of Environmental Health Household Hazardous Waste program is conducting this event with funding from the California Department of Recycling and Resource Recovery. The event is intended to be a pilot program aimed at helping to make future collection and disposal of marine flares easier.
